There was no comAngustuio. mencement Of au action. Suppose no confession of The People judgment had been given, and the plaintiffs had actually Bradt. commenced a suit at the time the judgment was entered, ----and not before, and that the debt had then been barred by the statute of limitations, will it be pretended that the mere filling up of the writs would have taken the demand out of the statute? I am at a loss to conceive of a case more manifestly within both the letter and spirit of the provisions of the act to which I refer. To suffer an attorney to appear without authority, is going beyond what the law, according to my view of it, will warrant; but to sanction a judgment confessed by him is repealing the statute. This part of my opinion applies equally to the two judgments against Edmunds. I think, therefore, that both the judgments against jfohn Noyes and Samuel Ed-munds ought to be set aside. Motion denied.
