I shall in the future be more careful in examining the heart and lungs before operations. The patient did not die from shock--she died from a weak heart and the saturation of the blood with urea. The kidneys did not secrete at all after the operation. The pancreas has been removed for cancer. The violence done the tissues need not be so great as to cause death. It is a tearing and not a cutting operation. As to the possibility of fatty heart indicating Bright s disease, I will say that I have seen cases where Bright s disease did not exist. The one is a pure...
