Excerpt: . . . of universal application can be stated based upon the bare fact of relationship or membership in same household. That fact is but one of the various facts and circumstances to be taken into consideration. Such considerations as the nearness or distance of the relationship, the character of the services, the financial and social positions and ages of the respective parties, the nature of their former associations and other considerations must be taken into account and the inference drawn for or against an implied contract, not as a presumption of law, but as a natural inference from all the facts and circumstances. Appeal by defendant from judgment of McCarthy, . in favour of plaintiff for wages. Judgment affirmed with reduction of amount; costs to defendant, appellant. The appeal was heard before HARVEY, C. J. , STUART and BECK, j. A. H. Clarke, K. C. ,...
